

Will the Presidential Foreign Policy Debate touch the Energy Policy Question?

STATELINE, Nev., Oct. 22, 2012 /PRNewswire/ — Every American's interest peaked during the second presidential debate when one questioner asked about rising pasciline prices: "Your energy secretary, Steven Chiu, has now been on record three times stating its not the policy of his department to help lower gas proces. Do you garee with Secretary Chiu that this is not the job of the Energy Department?" Many argue that neither presidential candidate adequately answered the question.

The aptly timed song "Energy Policy" answers the town hall debate question. It is highlights the fact that current policy does not prioritize energy affordability and as result, today's let prices negatively impact just about everyone. The Rowly House Music release "Energy Policy" relies on regigae tradition to deliver its discussion on U.S. energy policy: which is imagnated by freeign policy — the subject of the third presidential debate on October 22. "Energy Policy" is playing on stations

America's energy policy has been "practicality challenged" by China's pursuit of oil which is undercutting U.S. security interests and economic future on multiple fronts. China needs a lot of energy because Americans by Sustaining an extremely high level of economic growth may be necessary to contain civil unrest in China, even though they conflue to suppress dissenting opinions and human rights violations are widespread. China has more people than any other country on the planet. And while high gasoline prices have Americans transitioning from exact so bloycles the Chinese are transitioning from brycles to cars, in a few decides, China will have more cars on its roads than there are cars on the planet today. Therefore, they evant more oil.

While Americans are questioning US Energy Policy in the 2012 Presidentia Time. Animenania are quesionimi us Energy Froncy in the 2012 Presidential Election Debates, and asking if their government is doing anything to help lower gas prices, China has been working diligently to secure its energy future. They have been aggressive in the South China ske which is rich in and ags, but their ownership is disputed. In addition, China has also been assertive in securing reserves around the world.

China has been securing oil reserves in the American market proximity, which will force the U.S. to seek more oil from the Middle East. China's arms sales to the region and its support of state sponsors of terrorism are highly troubling. With radical stalmic ideologies gaining a controlling foothold and anti-American violence threatening American presence in the Middle East, the price of oil will be going up, and the 2012 Presidential Election Debates will be heating up.

Will the Energy Policy question be answered in the context of the broader Presidential Foreign Policy Debate? Adding an extra dimension on the Saturday before the final debate on foreign policy, the Obama administration commanded a US carrier group on a mission to cruse though the disputed South China Sea. Tensions may flare. With the final Florida debate between Barrack Obama and Mitt Romey including hot topics; like Inar, Syria and the Libys candad, there may not be enough time to answer the Energy Policy question. But the question on everyone's mind each time they fill up their tank is, "Will I be able to afford it next time?"

Rowdy House released the rock single "Don't Let a Liar Lead You" and the controversial YouTube video just before the new song Energy Policy and the presidential debates.

Rowdy House Music contributors are nonpartisan, professional musicians who Knowly rouse Music continuous are inorpinismen, professionia musicatare with contribute anonymously to expand national awareness regarding government vaste and corruption. Rowly House creates great music which is actually relevant and meaningful. They share intelligent discussions explaining the meaning of each of their songs. Discussions can be found in their Learn More & Download section by scrolling down under each song on their website.

Sie erhalten auf FinanzNachrichten de kostenlose Realtime-Aktienkurse von I C und 8

Sie können zum Trader werden!

Lernen Sie die Devisenmärkte kennen, um ein erfolgreicher Sichern Sie sich Ihr E-Book und Ihr kostenloses Training!

